

Touch Booklist

Toddler Tuesdays at MOXI

I Can Touch by Julie Murray

Located in non-fiction 612.88

Big colorful photos and short sentences show children how they use their sense of touch. Children will see familiar things in these pages. Other books in this series teach about the other senses.

Touch the Poem by Arnold Adoff

Located in non-fiction 811.54

This book has many lovely poems and illustrations to flip through with a child. Talk about the words like rough, smooth, burning, and cool. Try some of the actions the poems describe and talk about how they feel.

I Hear a Pickle : (and smell, see, touch, and taste it, too!)

by Rachel Isadora

Located in picture books under Isadora

Learn about all 5 senses with this playful book. The story points out things that are fun to touch and things that aren't so fun to touch. Talk with your child about why that is and what those things feel like.

What Do I Feel? / Qué siento? by Annie Kubler

Located in Spanish/bilingual board books.

This book is short and sweet with big cartoon illustrations of many different children touching all sorts of objects. Sand, blankets, paper, grass, and bunnies, to name a few.

Animals [Braille] : Knowledge you can touch

Located in non-fiction under 590 Animals

This big book of animal facts has pictures that are texturized, some are even fuzzy! It also has writing in text and in braille. A great opportunity to talk about how touch is used to read braille.

Human Body Theater : [a Non-Fiction Revue] by Maris Wicks

Located in non-fiction graphic novels under 612

One chapter describes the 5 senses in depth in a comic book style . Other chapters in this book cover the different systems that in the human body. A humorous and informative read for little ones that are especially hungry for knowledge.